

Activity Factory

Seamless relay in action.

Businesses like to use a lot of jargon. Words like workflow and process get thrown around a lot, when both essentially mean the same thing—getting work done. Similarly, a business process management tool is not as complicated as it might sound. And that is simply a tool that helps you get work done.

Activity Factory is a business process management tool designed to manage the coordination of applications, approvals, proposals, renewals, reports, and so on with a group of individuals. Through its user-friendly interface, users simply gain access to the selected task, view its status, add their input, and pass it on for the next stage in the relay.

That way, everybody involved is kept in the loop and keeps the work going by accomplishing their respective tasks until the activity has been completed.

Activity Factory is ideal for:

- > Database integration
- > Email notification and alerts
- > Resource groups (roles)
- > Performance monitor
- > Support for various process routing options; split, merge and loops
- > Search for performance
- > Upload attachments
- > Workflow designer

Key features of Activity Factory include:

- Fully functional workflow solution
- Temporal or periodic workflow
- Support for process routing options; split, merge and loops
- Integrates across multiple databases and applications
- Available as a hosted service or on client's infrastructure
